

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The system of the present invention includes, briefly, a mortgage loan data processing system for managing the origination of a mortgage loan by a loan originator for a loan customer, comprising: computer processor for processing data; storage device for storing data on a storage medium; mechanism for initializing the storage medium; mechanism for processing data regarding the loan customer already possessed by the loan originator; mechanism for processing data regarding the loan customer not previously possessed by the loan originator input through screen displays; mechanism for processing data regarding the already possessed and not previously possessed data and for generating a loan application for the loan customer; and mechanism for processing data regarding the mortgage loan and the data regarding the loan customer and for generating disclosure documents.